Ed DeWispelare Joins Apollo Enterprise Solutions as Senior Vice President of Sales

Irvine, California – December 6, 2005 — Apollo Enterprise Solutions announced today that Ed DeWispelare has joined the company as Senior Vice President of Sales. At Apollo, DeWispelare will be responsible for new business sales for Banking, Utility and Financial Services.

“Ed brings a unique combination of new business skills and a deep knowledge of consultative selling to the financial services industry,” said Christopher Imrey, president of Apollo Enterprise Solutions. “We’re delighted to have him on the Apollo team.”

Prior to joining Apollo, DeWispelare spent 18 years with First Data Corp, where he served in various new business development roles. Over the term of his career at First Data Corp, DeWispelare held senior leadership roles in both the Card and Utility Services group and was directly responsible for bringing more than 65 new clients to First Data. He was also the senior member of the Retail Services start up effort within First Data and personally signed both Brooks Brothers and Tiffany’s to the new service division in year one. Today, the retail segment of First Data’s card group is the company’s largest single business division with revenues in excess of $300 million.

“My decision to join Apollo was based primarily on their position as the leading provider of advanced web-based intelligent debt settlement and payment technology,” said DeWispelare. “While several companies offer ‘single function’ collections programs that use the Internet, in my opinion, only Apollo has successfully integrated all of the critical elements of the settlement process into a single, turnkey package.
