Apollo Enterprise Solutions Receives 2008 Collection Technology Excellence Award

Irvine, CA January 29, 2008 – Apollo Enterprise Solutions LLC, the leading provider of web-based payment and collection technology, announced today that it has been selected as a winner of a 2008 Collection Technology Excellence Award. The Collection Technology Excellence Awards recognize those individuals and companies within the industry who have gone above and beyond to further collection technology and its associated community.

Presented by Collection Technology magazine, the industry's foremost information resource, and the Collection Technology Summit, winners of Collection Technology Excellence Awards are chosen based on nominations by industry executives and on careful consideration by the senior editorial staff of Collection Technology and the Collection Technology Summit Board of Advisors.

"It's very gratifying to be recognized as a leader in advancing debt collection technology by one of our industry's most respected publications," said Apollo Founder and President Christopher Imrey. "As the first web-based, real-time self-settlement system to incorporate bureau data, analytics and decisioning intelligence, the Apollo Intelligent Debt Solutions™ (IDS) system helps individuals resolve their debt obligations by creating individual, customized offers that reflect their most realistic ability to pay. As a result, Apollo's IDS system consistently delivers more debtors for recovery and settlement and more dollars per settlement."

During the past year, Apollo's award-winning technology attracted several major clients from the card issuing, debt-buying and recovery side of the business and the company is now collecting over $1 billion online annually. The company is also providing its proven, patent-pending online collection applications to healthcare providers through its subsidiary, Apollo Enterprise Healthcare Solutions, LLC. Finally, on the international front, Apollo is in the process of expanding its client base into a number of markets throughout Europe and Asia.
